INTRODUCTION

General Motors is invested in the communities where we live and work. We strive to bring our customers the innovation they demand, provide shareholders value on their investment and be a responsible corporate citizen. A critical component of these efforts is actively participating in the political process. GM remains engaged through trade association and business organization memberships, direct lobbying, and the General Motors Political Action Committee's (GM PAC) political contributions.

In this report, we provide important information on how we participate in the political process. Every action we take is in strict compliance with local, state, and federal law.

Our decisions are grounded in GM's public policy positions and the best interests of our consumers, business, and employees. Decisions are made without regard to political party affiliation and are always mindful of our company values. Additionally, the Board of Directors' Governance and Corporate Responsibility Committee (GCRC) has been delegated by the Board for oversight of these activities, and we also have a robust management-driven oversight process. Together, these guardrails are directed to one objective: to ensure we have an effective, responsible voice in policy discussions that impact our business, our employees, our customers, and our communities.

Omar A. Vargas

VICE PRESIDENT, GLOBAL PUBLIC POLICY
CHAIR, GM PAC

PRINCIPLES

1 POLITICAL ENGAGEMENT

U.S. public policy – federal, state, and local legislation, regulation, and administrative action – can significantly affect GM’s consumers and business goals. GM participates in these and related political processes to ensure policymakers are informed by our expertise and insights when considering policies that impact our operations. GM PAC makes political contributions to candidates and entities that support our industry, reflect our values and principles, and advance our vision for the future of mobility. GM engages in lobbying and participates in various trade associations, business, and public policy organizations that advocate on issues important to the company.

We believe that strong, transparent engagement is a critical and appropriate role for companies. GM complies with federal, state, and local laws including those governing lobbying and campaign finance, discloses its lobbying activities and political contributions, and administers a robust training and compliance program.

2 TRANSPARENCY AND DISCLOSURE

As part of our overall effort to promote political transparency and accountability, GM voluntarily publishes this annual report of political contributions.

In addition, GM files publicly available federal Lobbying Disclosure Act reports each quarter, which disclose GM’s federal lobbying expenditures, describe legislation and issues covered by lobbying activities, and identify the registered individuals who lobbied on behalf of GM. GM also files similar periodic reports with states and localities as applicable. Links to these reports are available below.

In recognition of the best-in-class nature of GM’s disclosure, the Center for Political Accountability’s Zicklin Index of Corporate Political Accountability and Disclosure, which benchmarks the political disclosure and accountability policies and practices of leading U.S. public companies, has recognized the quality of our disclosures, and ranked GM as a Trendsetter, its highest ranking, among S&P 500 companies.

GOVERNANCE – BOARD OF DIRECTORS OVERSIGHT

The GCRC oversees the company’s political engagement strategy. This includes political contributions and lobbying expenditures made during the past year and previews the framework for the coming year. During these reviews, the Committee can seek adjustments to the framework. The Board also receives frequent updates from management regarding significant global policy issues facing the Company. The Vice President of Global Public Policy is responsible for the operational activities and management consistent with this oversight, and that position reports to the Executive Vice President, Chief Legal and Public Policy Officer, and Corporate Secretary.

Additional Governance

Corporate political spending plans and decisions are reviewed and approved by senior management and based on the framework reviewed with the GCRC. In addition, the GCRC reviews shareholder feedback regarding political and lobbying contributions.

Federal law generally does not permit contributions, including in-kind contributions, by corporations to candidates for federal office or national party committees. However, corporations may contribute to candidates running for state or local office in some states and may contribute to various organizations that engage in political activities. All applicable contributions are listed in this report.

2025 POLICY PRIORITIES

FEDERAL POLICY PRIORITIES

Product Portfolio

GM's vision is a world with Zero Crashes, Zero Emissions, and Zero Congestion, and we are determined to ensure that the U.S. auto industry leads the way in the transportation technologies of the future.

GM stresses how all of industry and American consumers benefit from a successful, durable, achievable and aligned set of regulations. GM advocates for legislative and regulatory consistency in zero emission vehicle (ZEV) policies that reflect customer preference and align with evolving U.S. market realities, positioning GM's product portfolio for continued record-breaking growth. For example, GM routinely submits comments on pending federal and state regulations that emphasize the need for thoughtful, well-structured regulations that reflect the complexities of the automotive industry's long lead time and capital-intensive nature.

International Competitiveness and Supply Chains

GM advocates for policies that contribute to the future success of American manufacturing and keep our country's vehicles and services competitive on a global scale. Our advocacy efforts focus on issues that are vital to developing secure, sustainable, and scalable supply chains for components that are critical to achieving GM's Zero, Zero, Zero vision. These components include semiconductors, batteries, and critical minerals. Establishing secure, sustainable, scalable, and cost-competitive value chains are key to enabling US leadership in the advanced transportation technologies of the future.

Privacy and Cybersecurity

GM supports a single, comprehensive federal privacy law that preempts the growing patchwork of state privacy laws. A single preemptive federal privacy law will provide clarity and consistency for customers and businesses alike, which in turn helps foster innovation by creating a level playing field across industries where companies can deliver their best products and services to customers.

Safety

Top policy issues for GM include mitigating distracted driving, deployment of advanced driver assist systems, passenger safety, and product cybersecurity. We have advocated for strong safety legislation on the state and federal levels, including safety legislation that was enacted as part of the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) and will continue to do so as part of the Safety Title in the Surface Transportation Reauthorization that Congress will work to advance in the 119th Congress.

STATE AND LOCAL POLICY PRIORITIES

Product Portfolio

GM's vision is a world with Zero Crashes, Zero Emissions, and Zero Congestion, and we are determined to ensure that the U.S. auto industry leads the way in the transportation technologies of the future. GM stresses how all of industry and American consumers benefit from a successful, durable, achievable and aligned set of regulations. GM advocates for legislative and regulatory consistency in zero emission vehicle (ZEV) policies that reflect customer preference and align with evolving U.S. market realities, positioning GM's product portfolio for continued record-breaking growth. For example, GM routinely submits comments on pending federal and state regulations that emphasize the need for thoughtful, well-structured regulations that reflect the complexities of the automotive industry's long lead time and capital-intensive nature.

Economic Development

GM drives local economies throughout the United States – almost 1 million people in the U.S. depend on GM for their livelihood including employees, suppliers and dealers.

We advocate for state and local economic development policies that strengthen American automotive manufacturing and induce related job growth for the U.S. automotive sector. We work closely with state and local governments across the United States to urge public investment in automotive manufacturing and innovation.

Privacy and Cybersecurity

GM advocates to protect our customers and business from state policies that pose unnecessary risk to GM products, software, and services. We support a single, comprehensive federal consumer data privacy law that would preempt a growing patchwork of state privacy laws to drive uniformity and consistency for customers and industry.

Dealer Franchise

GM utilizes the Dealer Policy Center of Excellence (DPCE) to engage with legislative and auto dealer stakeholders nationwide on state franchise matters. Various state proposals pose significant business and financial risks, prompting the need to oppose many legislative changes to dealer franchise laws. GM specifically opposes efforts that limit OEM authority in dealer agreements, restrict parts sales and vehicle sales incentives, and adversely regulate subscription services, digital over-the-air (OTA) updates, and warranty compensation for parts and labor. This work helps minimize risks from adverse legislation and supports our customers.

Autonomous Vehicles

GM advocates for state and local legislation that enables the development of safe driver-assistance and autonomous technology for vehicles, like Advanced Driver Assistance Systems (ADAS) and personal autonomous vehicles (PAVs). We work across each state and locality to protect GM's evolving AV/ADAS product and service portfolio.

2024 LOBBYING ACTIVITIES

In 2024, GM spent $13.65 million on federal lobbying. This number includes any indirect federal lobbying through trade associations. Details of GM's 2024 Federal Lobbying Disclosure and Federal Lobbying Contribution Reports can be found at:

A blue rectangular graphic containing four white boxes, each representing a link to a quarterly federal lobbying report. Each box features a document icon on the left, a blue arrow pointing to the top right in the upper right corner, and the text 'Federal Lobbying Report' followed by the quarter and year (e.g., 'Q1 2024'). A horizontal line is positioned below the text in each box. The background of the graphic shows a blurred image of a car on a road.

GM lobbies in all 50 states. GM files state lobbying reports in compliance with state requirements. These reports are publicly available in the respective jurisdictions.

TRADE ASSOCIATION AND BUSINESS ORGANIZATION MEMBERSHIPS

GM holds memberships in trade associations and business organizations representing the automotive industry and the wider business community. Engaging with other stakeholders helps us gain perspective and views on public policy issues that impact our company. Additionally, participating in a broad array of groups expands the company’s ability to build coalitions in support of its policy positions.

GM does not agree with all the positions of every industry, trade, or policy organization in which it participates. However, through participation and active engagement with these organizations, GM seeks to influence their positions in a manner that aligns with GM’s interests.

CORPORATE AND GM PAC POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

GM and GM PAC make political contributions in connection with U.S. federal, state or local elections as permitted by law. We contribute to political parties, political action committees, and ballot measure committees in the furtherance of public policies that support the company's business goals. GM does not make independent expenditures to expressly advocate for the election or defeat of candidates.

POLICY REGARDING MAKING POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS AND EXPENDITURES

GM PAC is governed by the GM PAC Board of Directors, and contributions are overseen by the Steering Committee. GM PAC makes political contributions pursuant to a robust vetting and review process and in accordance with GM PAC Articles of Organization and Governing Policies.

Using the following criteria, GM PAC contributions are guided by a Board of Directors appointed by the Chief Executive Officer of GM:

- (1) Representation of a district with a GM facility and/or employees, retirees, and other constituents of importance (e.g., suppliers);
- (2) General support of issues of importance to GM and/or the industry; and,
- (3) Placement in a leadership position or on a key committee of importance to GM and/or the industry.

Even if a candidate meets the base criteria, a candidate can be disqualified from receiving contributions from GM if:

- a) the candidate, while seeking or holding a public office, is found guilty of a felony or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude; or
- (b) espouses or endorses public positions which are persistently and patently inconsistent with GM's stated corporate values.

Direct corporate political contributions will also be guided by the above set of criteria.

Consistent with our commitment to ethical business conduct, political spending reflects GM’s interests and is not based on the personal interests of any of our individual officers, directors, or employees. Furthermore, no contributions are given in anticipation of, in recognition of, or in return for any official act.

EMPLOYEE POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Thousands of GM employees take an active voluntary role through membership in GM PAC. GM PAC, and associated state PACs, are independent of any political party. They provide employees the ability to make financial contributions that can be used to support candidates and participate in the political process. Our employee political action committee spending plans are reviewed and approved by the Political Action Committee’s Steering Committee and receive compliance review before contributions are made.

POLITICAL COMPLIANCE

GM Legal Staff assists with compliance with laws, including reporting obligations. In addition:

- GM provides training for employees who may interface with public officials; and,
- GM’s intranet site includes policies related to lobbying, gifts, contributions, and political fundraising, including for personal political activity.
- GM PAC and GM’s state PACs undergo a financial compliance audit by an external auditor after each election cycle.
- The Vice President, Global Public Policy, oversees GM’s corporate political activity and the GM PAC.

GM★PAC

Contributions to GM PAC are not deductible for federal income tax purposes. Contributions to the GM PAC will be used for political purposes in connection with federal and state elections and are subject to the prohibitions and limitations of the Federal Election Campaign Act. Under federal law, the maximum permitted individual contribution to a political action committee is $5,000 per calendar year. All contributions to the GM PAC are voluntary. Eligible employees have the right to refuse to contribute without reprisal, and any guidelines for contributing are merely suggestions. You may give more or less, or not at all. You will not be favored or disadvantaged by reason of the amount contributed or the decision of whether to contribute. The deduction you select will continue until you elect to have it discontinue. Please note that federal law requires political action committees to report the name, mailing address, employer, and occupation for each individual whose total contributions to the PAC exceed $200 in a calendar year, and such information is public record. Contributions from foreign nationals, or permanent residents (green card holders) not residing in the U.S., are prohibited. For further information on the GM PAC privacy statement, please visit www.gmpac.com.
