U.S. POLITICAL ENGAGEMENT OVERVIEW

GM★PAC

2024 U.S. POLITICAL ENGAGEMENT OVERVIEW

INTRODUCTION

General Motors is invested in the communities where we live and work. We strive to bring our customers the innovation they demand, provide shareholders value on their investment, and be a responsible corporate citizen. A critical component of these efforts is actively participating in the political process. GM remains engaged through trade association and business organization memberships, direct lobbying, and through the General Motors Political Action Committee's (GM PAC) political contributions.

In this report, we provide important information on how we participate in the political process. Every action we take is in strict compliance with local, state, and federal law.

Our decisions are grounded in GM's public policy positions and the best interests of our consumers, business, and employees. Decisions are made without regard to political party affiliation and always mindful of our company values, and our vision of Zero Crashes, Zero Emissions, and Zero Congestion. Additionally, the Governance and Corporate Responsibility Committee (GCRC) within the Board of Directors is responsible for oversight of these activities, and we have a robust management-driven process. Together, these guardrails are directed to one objective: to ensure we have an effective, responsible voice in policy discussions that impact our business, our employees, our customers, and our communities.

Omar Vargas
VP and Head of Global Public Policy
Chair, GM PAC

Our decisions are grounded in GM's public policy positions and the best interests of our consumers, business, and employees.

Political Engagement

U.S. public policy – federal, state, and local legislation, regulation, and administrative action – can significantly affect GM’s consumers and business goals. GM participates in these and related political processes to ensure policymakers are informed by our expertise and insights when considering policies that impact our operations. GM PAC makes political contributions to candidates and entities that support our industry, reflect our values and principles, and advance our vision for the future of mobility. GM engages in lobbying and participates in various trade associations and business and public policy organizations that advocate on issues important to the company.

We believe that strong, transparent engagement is a critical and appropriate role for companies. GM complies with federal, state, and local laws including those governing lobbying and campaign finance, discloses its lobbying activities and political contributions, and administers a robust training and compliance program.

Transparency and Disclosure

As part of our overall effort to promote political transparency and accountability, GM voluntarily publishes this annual report of political contributions.

In addition, GM files publicly available federal Lobbying Disclosure Act reports each quarter, which disclose GM’s federal lobbying expenditures, describes legislation and issues covered by lobbying activities, and identifies the registered individuals who lobbied on behalf of GM. GM also files similar periodic reports with states and localities as applicable. Links to these reports are available below.

In recognition of the best-in-class nature of GM’s disclosure, the Center for Political Accountability’s Zicklin Index of Corporate Political Accountability and Disclosure, which benchmarks the political disclosure and accountability policies and practices of leading U.S. public companies, has recognized the quality of our disclosures, and ranked GM as a Trendsetter, its highest ranking, among S&P 500 companies.

Governance – Board of Directors Oversight

The GCRC oversees the company’s political engagement strategy. This includes political contributions and lobbying expenditures made during the past year and previews the framework for the coming year. During these reviews, the Committee can seek adjustments to the framework. The Board of Directors also receives frequent updates from management regarding significant global policy issues facing the Company. The Vice President, Global Public Policy is responsible for the operational activities and management consistent with this oversight and that position reports to the Executive Vice President, Legal, Policy, Cybersecurity, and Corporate Secretary.

Additional Governance

Corporate political spending plans and decisions are reviewed and approved by senior management and based on the framework reviewed with the GCRC.

Federal law generally does not permit contributions, including in-kind contributions, by corporations to candidates for federal office or national party committees. However, corporations may contribute to candidates running for state or local office in some states and may contribute to various organizations that engage in political activities.

2024 FEDERAL POLICY PRIORITIES

Autonomous Vehicles

GM continues to advocate for thoughtful AV policies before Congress and before the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) that allows for the safe deployment of self-driving vehicles at scale. Congress continues to hold hearings and work on legislation that would increase the current statutory cap on exemptions that NHTSA can grant for self-driving vehicles without human driver controls, clarify federal and state regulatory responsibility, and direct NHTSA to update Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards (FMVSS) for self-driving vehicles. At NHTSA, GM continues to support a clear exemption petition process and the development of a national AV pilot program for a pathway towards commercial deployment.

Electric Vehicles & Charging Infrastructure

GM is committed to a future with zero emissions through accelerating deployment of EVs for everyday use. During the 117th Congress, the Bipartisan Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA) and the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) were signed into law. Both pieces of legislation contained numerous provisions that will assist in the acceleration of EV charging, consumer and commercial adoption of EVs, and domestic battery manufacturing. GM is working with the 118th Congress and the Biden administration to provide input as they oversee and promulgate implementing regulations.

Fuel Economy

GPP is working with the EPA, NHTSA, Department of Energy (DOE), and California Air Resources Board (CARB) to ensure that their regulations harmonize with the same level of EV deployment, criteria pollutant reduction, and efficiency improvements for internal combustion engines (ICE). GM fully supports GHG regulations aligned with the goals of Executive Order 14037 (e.g., achieving a 50% EV share by 2030 and a 60% reduction in GHG emissions from model year 2021 to 2030). However, we believe it is crucial that all related regulations enable federal GHG-compliant fleets to comply without penalties, product restrictions, or the need to purchase credits. Any discrepancies between regulations will likely impede progress on the industry's transition to EVs and the nation's decarbonization objectives.

International Competitiveness and Supply Chains

GM advocates for policies that contribute to the future success of American manufacturing and keeps our country's vehicles and services competitive on a global scale. Our advocacy efforts focus on issues that are vital to developing secure, sustainable, and scalable supply chains for components which are critical to achieving GM's Zero, Zero, Zero vision. These components include semiconductors, batteries, and critical minerals. Establishing secure, sustainable, scalable, and cost-competitive value chains are a key to enabling an all-electric, clean transportation future.

Privacy

GM supports a single, comprehensive federal privacy law that preempts the growing patchwork of state privacy laws, that is clear and consistent for customers and businesses alike, and that in turn helps to foster innovation by creating a level playing field on which companies can deliver their best products and services to customers.

Safety

Top policy issues for GM include mitigating distracted driving, the safe deployment of self-driving vehicles and passenger safety, and product cybersecurity. We have advocated for strong safety legislation on the state and federal levels, including safety legislation that was enacted as part of the IIJA.

Safety is a top priority for GM. Global Public Policy works directly with policymakers throughout the country, as well as federal regulators at NHTSA, to focus on safe vehicles and roadways for all.

2024 STATE AND LOCAL POLICY PRIORITIES

Autonomous Vehicles

GM advocates for legislative and regulatory opportunities that provide for the safe expansion and operation of self-driving vehicle systems. On the state and local levels, GM works with governments, local community partners, and transportation/mobility stakeholders to advocate for expanded mobility and technology initiatives.

Electric Vehicles & Charging Infrastructure

GM advocates for the advancement of and investment in electric vehicle incentives and charging infrastructure across the United States. We support state and local policies that will help accelerate the domestic adoption of electric vehicles and enable critical public funds, such as those from the federal IRA and IIJA, to help realize GM's vision of a future with Zero Crashes, Zero Emissions, and Zero Congestion.

Economic Development

Today, GM is directly responsible for more than 90,000 U.S. jobs and is the economic lifeblood of numerous communities throughout the United States. GM has facilities in 27 states, plus the District of Columbia. We work closely with state and local governments on economic development opportunities to strengthen American manufacturing and job creation.

Cybersecurity and Data Privacy

GM zealously advocates to protect our customers and business from state policies which would pose unnecessary cybersecurity and privacy risk. To drive uniformity across the state landscape, GM supports a single, comprehensive federal privacy law that preempts the growing patchwork of state privacy laws, that is clear and consistent for customers and businesses alike.

Dealer Franchise

Each year, GM engages with state legislatures when state auto dealer trade associations seek to modify state auto dealer franchise laws with the intention of limiting manufacturers’ authority to implement policies and practices established through dealer sales and service agreements. In recent years, states have introduced legislation to regulate warranty reimbursement for parts and labor, vehicle subscription services, over the air (OTA) updates, measures to prohibit manufacturers’ sale of parts, as well as restrictions on manufacturer vehicle sales incentives and dealer facility programs.

Lemon Laws

Every interaction with a GM customer is important. Current abuses of the Lemon Law in certain states by a small group of attorneys harm customers through excessive delays and fees. GM supports the changes proposed by the Civil Justice Association of California. Additionally, GM works with the American Tort Reform Association on issues such as seat belt admissibility evidence in legal proceedings, product liability, and phantom damages. GM currently supports seatbelt nonuse admissible evidence in legal proceedings in Georgia and South Carolina.

Disclosure Reports

Details of GM’s 2023 Federal Lobbying Disclosure and Federal Lobbying Contribution Reports can be found at:

Additionally, GM files state lobbying reports in compliance with state requirements. These reports are publicly available in the respective jurisdictions.

TRADE ASSOCIATION AND BUSINESS ORGANIZATION MEMBERSHIPS

GM holds memberships in trade associations and business organizations representing the automotive industry and the wider business community. Engaging with other stakeholders helps us gain perspective and views on public policy issues that impact our company. Additionally, participating in a broad array of groups expands the company's ability to build coalitions in support of its policy positions.

GM does not agree with all the positions of every industry, trade, or policy organization in which it participates. However, through participation and active engagement with these organizations, GM seeks to influence their positions in a manner that aligns with GM's interests.

Political Contributions

GM and GM PAC make political contributions in connection with U.S. federal, state, or local elections as permitted by law. We contribute to political parties, political action committees, and ballot measure committees in the furtherance of public policies that support the company's business goals. GM does not make independent expenditures to expressly advocate for the election or defeat of candidates.

Policy Regarding Making Political Contributions and Expenditures

GM PAC is governed by the GM PAC Board of Directors, and contributions are overseen by the Steering Committee. GM PAC makes political contributions pursuant to a robust vetting and review process and in accordance with GM PAC Articles of Organization and Governing Policies.

Using the following criteria, GM PAC contributions are guided by a Board of Directors appointed by the Chief Executive Officer of GM:

- (1) Representation of a district with a GM facility and/or employees, retirees, and other constituents of importance (e.g., suppliers);
- (2) General support of issues of importance to GM and/or the industry; and,
- (3) Placement in a leadership position or on a key committee of importance to GM and/or the industry.

Even if a candidate meets the base criteria, a candidate can be disqualified from receiving contributions from GM if:

- a) the candidate, while seeking or holding a public office is found guilty of a felony or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude; or
- (b) espouses or endorses public positions which are persistently and patently inconsistent with GM's stated corporate values.

Direct corporate political contributions will also be guided by the above set of criteria.

Consistent with our commitment to ethical business conduct, political spending reflects GM's interests and is not based on the personal interests of any of our individual officers, directors, or employees. Furthermore, no contributions are given in anticipation of, in recognition of, or in return for any official act.

Employee Political Activity

Thousands of GM employees take an active voluntary role through membership in GM PAC. GM PAC, and associated state PACs, are independent of any political party. They provide employees the ability to make financial contributions that can be used to support candidates and participate in the political process. Our employee political action committee spending plans are reviewed and approved by the Political Action Committee's Steering Committee and receive compliance review before contributions are made.

Political Compliance

GM Legal staff assists with compliance with laws including reporting obligations. In addition:

- GM provides training for employees who may interface with public officials; and
- GM's intranet site includes policies related to lobbying, gifts, contributions, and political fundraising including for personal political activity.
- GM PAC and GM's state PACs undergo a financial compliance audit by an external auditor after each election cycle.

The Executive Vice President, Legal, Policy, Cybersecurity, and Corporate Secretary oversees GM's corporate political activity and the GM PAC.

GM★PAC

Contributions to GM PAC are not deductible for federal income tax purposes. Contributions to the GM PAC will be used for political purposes in connection with federal and state elections and are subject to the prohibitions and limitations of the Federal Election Campaign Act. Under federal law, the maximum permitted individual contribution to a political action committee is $5,000 per calendar year. All contributions to the GM PAC are voluntary. Eligible employees have the right to refuse to contribute without reprisal, and any guidelines for contributing are merely suggestions. You may give more or less, or not at all. You will not be favored or disadvantaged by reason of the amount contributed or the decision of whether to contribute. The deduction you select will continue until you elect to have it discontinued. Please note that federal law requires political action committees to report the name, mailing address, employer, and occupation for each individual whose total contributions to the PAC exceed $200 in a calendar year, and such information is public record. Contributions from foreign nationals, or permanent residents (green card holders) not residing in the U.S., are prohibited.
